ARENTS OF GIRL EPT IN CORN CRIB ACE PROSECUTION

Charges Filed Against Mr. and Mrs. Emmert Stoner.

HOME NEAR AGOSTA

Father Pleads Not Guilty; Wife To Face Court Thursday.

Charged with imprisoning his 19-year-old feeble minded daughter Pauline in a corn crib without sufficient food, clothing or shelter, Emmert E. Stoner, of one mile south of Agosta, is being held in the county jail pending a hearing before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin Saturday at 9 a. m.

Stoner pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned this morning. His bond was placed at $1,000. Mrs. Stoner is scheduled to appear in municipal court Thursday morning to be arraigned on a like charge.

Affidavits charging Stoner and his wife with torturing and cruelly treating their daughter were signed by James F. Ullom, Marion county humane officer, in the office of Prosecuting Attorney Russell M. Wilhelm yesterday. Stoner was arrested last night while his wife was permitted to stay at home to take care of her children.

The alleged acts of the parents first gained widespread attention Sunday night when Marshal E. W Willmeth of LaRue was called to the Stoner farm to investigate a complaint.

The marshal said that he discovered the girl in the locked metal corn crib lying on a concrete floor littered with cobs, dirt and shelled corn She was clothed, he said, in a thin sweater and a filmsy short skirt. Burlap sacks served as covers.

Asks for Food

As the result of an attempt to talk to the girl the marshal quoted her as saying that she was being forced to stay in the corn crib by her parents. When asked if she was hungry, he said she asked for "a piece of cake or anything." She refused to talk, Willmeth said, when her father appeared at the door

Willmeth drove back to LaRue and returned about an hour later with Mayor S W. Fields. The girl was still lying on the floor and Mayor Fields verified Willmeth's story.

On orders of the LaRue mayor the girl was taken into the house

When county authorities visited the home yesterday afternoon, the girl had been taken into the house. They were taken to a little, barren room upstairs where the girl was

CAPONE'S FREEDOM SOUGHT WITH WRIT

Habeas Corpus Action Is Brought by Gang Chief's Attorneys at Atlanta.

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 21—Attorneys for Al Capone, former Chicago gang chief, filed a writ of habeaus corpus for his freedom in federal district court here today and Judge Marvin Underwood called an immediate hearing.

Capone was expected to appear personally in the court room to assist his attorneys.

The habeas corpus petition was said to be based on grounds similar to those advanced unsuccessfully by Capone in Chicago before he was brought to prison here.

Judge Underwood may rule immediately on the petition or may postpone his decision.

United States Marshal Louis Crawford notified Warden A. C. Alderbolt of the Atlanta federal penitentiary that he was sending a writ for the appearance of Capone at the hearing. Capone was expected to be started immediately for the courtroom.

RULES AGAINST N. Y. ELECTION

Supreme Court Upholds McKee in Refusing Special Mayoralty Vote.

TAMMANY LOSES FIGHT

Walker Successor To Continue in Office Until November, 1933.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Mayor Joseph V. McKee won his supreme court fight today to prevent a mayoralty election in November.

When McKee succeeded recently to the office of mayor by virtue of the resignation of James J. Walker, during an ouster hearing at Albany, the city clerk certified to a vacancy which he ruled should be filled by a special election in connection with this year's general election. The regular mayoralty election was not due until next year.

McKee Goes to Court

McKee had a court action started to prevent the special election, an action which was opposed by Tammany hall and other organizations. The matter was taken under advisement and today Supreme Court Justice McGeehan announced his decision that there should be no mayoralty election and that McKee should stay in office until the time of the regular election a year from November.

The court action was brought for McKee by David McAdams, a taxpayer. It was opposed by former Sheriff David Knott, as chairman of the Tammany hall executive committee, and Morris Hillquit, Socialist leader who said he represented the chairmen of the Socialist committees of the city's five counties.

"In view of the comprehensive nature of the charter provisions affecting the mayor's office of this city," Justice McGeehan said in his decision, "I am constrained to hold that the application of the petitioner, McAdams, should be granted, and that of the petitioner, Knott, denied."

Several Seek Post

Since the resignation of Mayor Walker and the certification by the city clerk that the vacancy should be filled at a special election this fall a number of booms have been started for prospective mayoralty candidates.

When Mayor Walker resigned, he said he would leave his case in the hands of the people. However, he declined to elaborate on that statement and would not say whether it meant that he intended to become a candidate for the office of mayor.

STOCK SHARES GAIN IN WAVE OF BUYING

Big Board Issues Soar from One to Three Dollars Higher.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Optimism ruled in the stock market today; and prices of leaders swept upwar from $1 to $3 a share.

The buying movement was the strongest in 10 days and followed a week of extreme dullness in activity, after the sharp break of early last week. Bullish sentiment appeared to be based partly on expectations of an improvement in steel operations and a belief that September railroad earnings will make a relatively good showing.

American Telephone soared $3 a share to over $111. U. S. Steel gained $2 to nearly $40. Santa Fe and Union Pacific advanced more than $2 each and New York Central and Southern Pacific rose $1 or so. Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, International Harvester and Standard Oil of New Jersey were up $1 to $2. General Motors improved about $1 to $16.50 a share.

Cotton, opening with moderate advances, quickly extended its gains to $1 to $1.50 a bale.

TRIAL OF MASCHKE PROCEEDS SLOWLY

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 21 — Court officials expected to call a new panel of talesmen today to complete the jury which will try Maurice Maschke, Cleveland Republican leader, and five co-defendants in Cuyahoga county's $177,000 embezzlement case.

Eleven jurors, six men and five women, were tentatively seated when court adjourned yesterday, and were locked last night in quarters at a hotel, only eight of the 60 members of the first venire remained to be questioned.

Although attorneys for the state and defense temporarily "passed" 22 jurors, it was expected some of these would be excused today through peremptory challenges.

TWO KILLED IN AUTO AND TRUCK CRASH

New Jersey and West Virginia Men Die in Accident Near Cardington.

WOMAN IS IN HOSPITAL

Condition Regarded as Serious; Truck Trailer Hits Car at One-Way Bridge.

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, Sept. 21—Identification was made this morning of two men killed in an automobile-truck accident two and one-half miles east of here yesterday at 3 p. m. A woman is in Grant hospital in Columbus, suffering from serious injuries, and two men, drivers of the truck and automobile, are suffering from bruises, cuts and burns A two-year-old child was the only person to escape injury.

The two identified men are Lewis Reigle, about 55, of Trenton, N. J, and William L. Ramsey, 32, of Ramsey, W. Va, a mining town.

The accident occurred at the Johnson bridge, a one-way structure on Route 42. The trailer of a heavy truck loaded with nine tons of sheet steel, swerved and hooked onto a sedan driven by Dr. Ivan Berry of Birmingham, Ala., throwing both the truck and sedan about 200 feet into a field. Dr Berry had parked his car at the entrance to the bridge and was waiting for the truck to pass.

Slippery Highway Blamed

Rain and a slippery highway are believed to have been the cause of the accident. Both cars were demolished when they landed in the field.

The truck was driven by M. W. Wright for the Brada Cartage Co. of Detroit, and was headed west into Cardington. The two men killed were picked up by Wright a short time before the accident. They were riding with him in the cab.

When the two machines stopped in the field, the three men were pinned beneath the truck. The two transients were crushed by the sliding steel. Wright was caught under the cab. Rescuers worked nearly an hour before they reached the three men.

Mrs. Berry and her 2-year-old child were in the sedan with Dr Berry. Mrs. Berry was taken to Grant hospital in Columbus in the Curl ambulance, where her condition was regarded as serious this morning. Her chest was crushed and she suffered several broken ribs and severe head cuts. Dr. Berry's right wrist tendons were severed.

Wright, who was thought yesterday afternoon to have been critically injured, was able to be up and around this morning, although he was suffering from severe cuts and bruises, and from burns suffered when the gasoline tank of the truck exploded. The fire was extinguished quickly and the burns are not considered serious.

Papers Lead to Identification

Papers found on the two dead men identified them. Reigle is a Spanish American war veteran. Ramsey, an insurance policy in his pocket showed, would have observed his thirty-second birthday anniversary today.

Authorities have notified Ramsey's family at Ramsey. According to information found on the body, his father is a school teacher at Ramsey. His wife and children are either at Akron, where he was employed until recently by the Goodrich Rubber Co., or at Ramsey.

Arrangements for disposition of the bodies will be made when word is received from the families. The bodies are at the Curl funeral home. Wright was taken to the offices of Dr. C. E. Sherman and received treatment there.

Another Debate Set.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 21—U. S. Senator Robert J. VIC DONAHEY ENTERS FIGHT

Speaks for Roosevelt, but Says He's for Third Party in Future if Necessary.

CAMPAIGNS GAIN SPEED

G. O. P. Hits Democratic Economy Claims; Republican Sincerity Challenged.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 21—Declaration that he stood ready to lead a third party in Ohio in the event Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is elected president and fails to make good was made here last night by Vic Donahey, three times Democratic governor.

Donahey was the principal speaker at a rally opening the Franklin county Democratic campaign.

The Republican state campaign centered at McConnelsville last night with former Governor Myers Y. Cooper and David S. Ingalls, the party's gubernatorial candidate, addressing a rally of 16th district leaders.

"I for one," Donahey said, "stand ready to lead a third party in Ohio if a Democratic administration should fail, let's love our country and its people more than we love our party"

Hits Economy Claim

Cooper, in his address, termed Democratic claims of economy in state government "a mirage which disappeared in the light of facts," while Ingalls advocated reduced public expenditures commensurate "with the tax income which our people may reasonably be expected to pay."

Ingalls, former assistant secretary of the navy, told of his personal contacts with President Hoover and declared it is time for the people to get behind the chief executive "to aid and assist him in solving his problems like the American people did in war time when both Republicans and Democrats got behind that great Democratic president, Woodrow Wilson, for the good of the country."

Donahey questioned the sincerity of the administration that comes "into power through the use of large sums of money."

Cooper told his audience that the Democrats had "twisted the facts" in order to claim that Gov. George White's administration had saved the state $9,000,000.

Charges Manipulation

"Of this amount," he said, $6,640,000 proved on a checkup to be state highway money, paid into the state treasury for the purpose of building roads, and which cannot be expended for any other purpose. It has nothing whatever to do with the condition of the general revenue fund, and this balance was only juggled for the purpose of fooling the people as to the condition of a bankrupt treasury at the end of the first year of a Democratic administration."

PUBLIC INVITED TO TAXATION MEETING

Council of 100 To Sponsor Open Discussion at Star Auditorium Thursday Night.

The Council of 100 will deal with the subject of taxes at a public meeting in The Star Auditorium Thursday night at 8.

The program, sponsored by the taxation committee of the council, will bring to the public the views of an authority on taxes as well as those of various organizations and individuals in Marion county.

Professor Edwin Smart of the department of commerce at Ohio State university will be the principal speaker. He will talk on "The History, Principles, Theory and Methods of Taxation."

A general invitation to residents of Marion and Marion county to attend the meeting has been extended by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, chairman of the council.

Organizations, groups and individuals given personal invitations to attend include the Council of 100, persons who answered their lawyer questionnaire relative to "Taxes" and "Welfare," all local, state and national nominees for public office, city and county officials, clerks of townships in Marion county, mayors, presidents of councils and town marshals in all Marion county villages, city firemen and policemen and city and county boards of education.

Peat Fire in Morrow County Bursts Into Open Flames

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Sept. 21—A peat fire which has been burning on the farms of S. D. Chipps, Tom Gordon and Ed Turner in Harmony township near the Blackbird church for several weeks has burst into flames in a number of places and the underground fire has caused some damage.

No buildings are located near the 10 acres in which the fire is confined. During the last few days great holes have appeared, making fire fighting attempts dangerous. A rail fence has been destroyed and the roots of a number of large trees have been burned off causing the trees to fall. Since the greater part of the fire is underground it is almost impossible to extinguish it.

While no definite origin has been found the fire is believed to have started during the harvest season from a brush fire on the Turner farm. Most of the 10 acres is swamp and woodland, only a few acres being open fields.

While individual attempts to extinguish the flames have failed there is a possibility that rains may end the fire. The extremely dry weather of the last few weeks is believed responsible for the increasing intensity noticed in the last week. Rain Monday night and Tuesday caused some lessening of the smoke and flames.

PARLEY RESUMED WITHOUT GERMANY

Major Business Sidetracked in Hope Nation Will Return.

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, Sept. 21—The world disarmament conference bureau, resuming its deliberations without a representative from Germany, postponed discussion of the German demand for arms equality today so that the German government might have time to respond to a letter urging it to continue participation.

The postponement was at the suggestion of Arthur Henderson, the chairman, who wrote the letter to Foreign Minister Von Neurath.

The clerk read the recent correspondence between Mr. Henderson and Herr Von Neurath, in which the latter served notice of Germany's withdrawal from this meeting Then the bureau took up the routine docket.

SAYS DAVIS OPPOSED MOOSE LODGE PRIZES

Supreme Secretary Testifies for Senator in New York Lottery Trial.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—The supreme secretary of the Loyal Order of Moose testified today that United States Senator James J. Davis, director general of the order who is on trial for violation of federal lottery laws, always objected to gambling and prize giving in Moose lodges.

The supreme secretary, Malcolm R Giles of Baltimore, continued his testimony at today's third session of the trial. Under cross examination by the defense he said the Moose charity ball of 1929, (repetitions of which in the next two years the government charges featured gigantic lotteries) followed a speech by Davis in which he suggested raising money to build a "House of God" at Mooseheart, Ill

Giles said, however, that no prizes or awards were given at the first ball, as they were at the two following.

"Do you know if Senator Davis was told of the difference between the 1929 ball and the two following" Giles was asked.

"I do not," he replied.

The government has sought to show that Davis, who holds the position of director general of the order for life, was in effect the "Mussolini of the Moose," directing all its actions and cognizant of the alleged lotteries from which the prosecution has alleged he profited personally by almost $200,000.

The defense has concentrated on trying to prove that since his entry into politics the senator who rose from peddler in a steel mill to serve in the cabinets of three presidents, has held a "merely honorary" position with the Moose.

A program of music will be furnished by the Delphia trio, of Marion. The program for the meeting is in charge of Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. John T. McNamara and Mrs. Grover Snyder.

POLITICAL LEADERS CONFER WITH GANDHI

End of Hunger Strike Appears Possible After Compromise Is Offered.

By The Associated Press

POONA, India, Sept. 21—A group of Indian political leaders from Bombay visited Mahatma Gandi in his cell at Yeroda jail today and submitted to him a plan for a compromise on the communal election question which they hoped would end the hunger strike he began yesterday.

They spent two hours closeted with the Mahatma and when they left, although no formal statement was made, the belief was expressed that Gandhi's fast would be ended before many days

The committee included his son Devidas, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar. The Mahatma was up early and showed little effect from his abstinence which began at noon yesterday.

The plan presented to him embraced a suggestion for joint elections, with proper safeguards for the untouchables, in whose interest he began the death fast.

In response to Gandhi's invitation, the leader of the untouchables planned to come to Poona tonight to meet Gandhi. Gandhi announced he would agree to the depressed classes surrendering their rights to separate electorates if the caste Hindus agreed, among other concessions, to the retention of 197 seats in the provincial legislature instead of the 71 awarded them by British government.

TWO DEAD IN OHIO FACTORY TRAGEDY

By The Associated Press

DOVER, O., Sept. 21—Worry over employment was blamed today for a factory worker's homicidal outburst, in which one man was shot to death and two others wounded before he committed suicide.

The shooting occurred in the Dover Manufacturing company's plant here yesterday, while 325 employes were at work.

Suddenly whipping out a revolver, Harvey Harper, 60, shot and killed his foreman, Homer Kline, 32, wounded Earl Rausch, 40, of Barberton and Charles C. Mauer, 48, of Dover, with stray shots and then ran past the other employes, barricaded himself in a garage, and fired another shot into his own temple.

The wounded men were taken to a hospital where physicians said both would recover.

New Slant

(©1932 Rogers Syndicat)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Sept. 21—Say, I got a whole new slant on this election racket today. I met a Republican. You see, on account of my low social standing I haven't been able to meet anybody but Democrats.

But this Republican tells me and shows me where this thing is going to be a real race. Those windy Democrats had led me to believe that the thing was going by default.

Mr. Hoover made a there yesterday that if I had been one of his advisers I would never have let him make it. He wants to put more orators in the field." I think and hope that it was a typographical error. It should read: "We want more orators UNDER the field."

As I told you all before, I seem to be the only person in America that has no idea who will win this election. But I do know one thing: It will be the side with the fewest "orators." Yes, even speakers.

LONG VICTORY LIST BROKEN

First Time in Quarter Century That La Follettes Have Been Defeated.

CONSERVATIVE TRIUMPH

Senator Blaine, Progressive, Also Defeated; Close Wet, Dry Contest in N. Y.

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 21—Gov. Philip F. LaFollette, youthful heir to the leadership of Wisconsin's Progressive political movement, was defeated yesterday in a primary election upset that broke a line of LaFollette political victories dating back a quarter of a century.

A majority of the voters in the Republican primary gave the nomination of governor to Walter J. Kohler, a conservative whom LaFollette defeated two years ago.

The majority by which they rendered this verdict, was indicated today in the returns from 2,473 of the state's 2,899 precincts in the state which showed Kohler leading by 77,306. The vote was Kohler 344,236; LaFollette 266,930.

Kohler a Manufacturer

Kohler is a wealthy manufacturer who lives in a little village that embraces his large factories and bears his name. He was introduced in politics in 1928 when he was elected a delegate at large in the Republican national convention. The governorship is the only public office he has ever held and he occupied that from 1924 to 1960.

Yesterday was the first time since 1922 that the LaFollette name has been voted down. In that year the governor's father, the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette, was beaten in a congressional race.

The vote from 2,804 precincts showed United States Senator John J. Blaine, progressive veteran, running behind John B. Chapple, young conservative candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination. Chapple was 22,213 ahead and his nomination was apparently assured. The vote stood, Chapple 308,101, Blaine 282,888.

The issue that resounded most from the progressive stump was summed up in the statement that Wisconsin will need $20,000,000 for unemployment relief next year and in the question "who is going to pay the bill?"

"Cut costs with Kohler," was the slogan of the Kohler ticket. Kohler accused the governor of extravagance. Mayor A. G. Schmedeman of Madison, appeared to have been nominated by the Democrats to oppose Kohler in November.

Late Returns Boost Lead of Youngman

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Sept. 21—Lt. Gov. William S. Youngman built up a growing lead over Frank A. Goodwin for the Republican gubernatorial nomination as returns from yesterday's primary moved slowly in today.

Returns from slightly more than half the 1707 precincts in the state gave Youngman a lead of more than 17,000 votes of the 223,000 counted.

On the face of partial returns today from all but two out of Massachusetts' 10 districts, all congressmen seeking renomination in the primary election yesterday, were victorious. Seven had no opposition.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 21—Advocates and opponents of prohibition ran a close race in yesterday's primary in districts where the Eighteenth amendment figured in the campaigns for Republican congressional nomination.

In eight up-state districts, four Republican congressmen who have supported the amendment were renominated. They were Frank Crowther, Thirtieth; Francis D. Culkin, Thirty-second; Frederick M. Davenport, Thirty-third, and Daniel A. Reed, Forty-third district. Each was opposed by an advocate of repeal.

Three congressmen who advocated a change in the prohibition law won renomination against candidates who had the support of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and kindred organizations. They were John D. Clarke in the Thirty-fourth district, Walter Granbery Andrews in the Forty-fifth and Edmund F. Cooke in the Forty-first.

Prohibition did not play a part in the Seventeenth district (Manhattan) where Ruth Pratt was renominated over G. Hilmon Klein. In the Twenty-seventh district Phillip A. Goodwin, Committee leader, was nominated as the successor to Representative Hereert J. Pratt, who is retiring.

One of Several Billion.

There are more than two billion people on earth, and Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi is one of them. In terms understandable to an American, he is as important, numerically, as a single dollar is to the national deficit which has piled up during the government's latest fiscal year.

But, where most of the two billion could make preparations to end their lives by starvation without the slightest attention being paid to them, and not a few of them probably are planning to do so, M. K. Gandhi is assured of newspaper space and consequent general attention as long as he continues with his intention to do the same thing.

The British, whom he intends to shame by self-infliction of what will be a very unpleasant death, are doing the least that will be compatible with their principles and the most that will be compatible with common decency. The "master" will be relieved of most of the restrictions customarily imposed upon political prisoners. His last days, if he really intends to make them his last days, will be made as easy as those of an agitator who has vexed Britain surely can be made, safely.

It is doubtful whether Mahatma Gandhi's latest method of helping India according to his lights of what constitutes help will stir the American spirit as deeply as it was stirred by the little man's other exhibitions. It is his right to do as he pleases, but self-inflicted death seems to be a futile exercise of the right, everything considered.

There is, indeed, a suspicion that the British are very happy about it in secret. Properly managed, it may give them an opportunity to be rid of Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi with a minimum of trouble. By letting him attain martyr status in the history books, they will be relieved of his living status as an inveterate dissenter to everything they are trying to do in India. If the Mahatma wants to go ahead with it, it looks like a bargain.

Man and Machines.

The English inventor who seems to be having so much trouble with his mechanical man, "Alpha," is living in a poor time for sympathy. If he gets clouted on the head or burned on the fingers for his trouble in showing people that science can make a thing on the form of a human being, he is receiving only samples of the real punishment machinery can inflict upon its creators.

Rows of mechanical men, unadorned with human form, have made more than one mass producer yell, "ouch." At other times, of course, they have been the course of great delight, even as "Alpha" must have been to his inventor on many occasions. But "Alpha" is tricky; he almost shot his master's hand off a few days ago. At other times, he has rapped him smartly with his steel fists.

The trouble seems to be that real men have been very stupid about handling mechanical men. Actually, of course, it is pure piffle to talk about machines becoming masters of human beings. Machines have no power of initiative. They can do only that which men permit them to do.

But men, by permitting them to take jobs away from fellow men who have to eat whether they work or not and by permitting them to make more money for one class than for a larger class which makes or breaks prosperity according to its ability to buy, have been making out a very bad case for their mechanical servants. Some of them, in fact, have displayed so little evidence of ability to think that they have looked like mechanical men in control of mechanical men. Unfortunately, it is vastly more difficult to control the power that moves them; electricity can be turned off and on, but the acquisitive instinct goes on forever.

Dr. Butler's Plan.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's state liquor control plan is a much needed reminder of the vast problem that would remain for solution if the 18th amendment and national legislation were to be repealed. There is anything but agreement on the difficult topic which the doctor approaches.

Differing from his party and his candidate, Dr. Butler predicates the success of any plan of state control on unconditional repeal of the amendment. In theory, he places proper conditions for success in the period preceding adoption of the amendment. He does not grant that there is anything in existing legislation worth saving.

In his plan, manufacture, transportation and sale of all intoxicating beverages would be carried on under state monopoly. The private distiller and brewer who were responsible for tolerating and promoting conditions which disgusted the country prior to enactment of the 18th amendment would be given no opportunities to repeat their practices.

Beverages would be taxed by both federal and state governments, however. The consumer would pay while he drank. Doctor Butler believes that by charging a high price for spirituous liquors, temperance would be promoted. Beer and light wines, manufactured and sold under a non-profit monopoly, could be made available at a price which would increase their popularity.

Whether there is agreement with the Butler plan or not, it must be given close attention as the first formal proposal in a series which will occupy a vast deal of public attention in the next few years. Before the 18th amendment is revised or repealed there will have to be a satisfactory following step outlined. Dr. Butler, militant and uncompromising wet, is first in the field. He knows full well the opposition his plan will encounter, among both wets and drys. It, or any other plan, will be the means of starting a bitter fight. But no one ever accused Dr. Butler of being afraid of the prospect of trouble. Had he been afraid, he wouldn't have the satisfaction of knowing that there is a necessity of planning for what will happen when the United States tries a different method for promoting temperance.

Shooting To Kill.

A man who kills another to even up the score of a feud is as much a murderer as one who kills to protect himself from competition in the beer racket. Public opinion, however, makes a slight discrimination in favor of the feudist; his motives are less likely to be commercial. In his own mind, at least, he has established a principle which partially justifies his crime.

There is little comfort in the fact that virtual eradication of the feuds that once stained American soil has been followed by commercialized murder on a scale that makes the feudal death rate, at its worst, unimportant in comparison. The outbreak of a feud of long standing in Kentucky last Sunday, resulting in the death of two men, is only a faint echo of a menace that once worried the nation.

There may be no more victims for years. The menace to life presented at the moment is removed immediately by the presence of state troops in the affected area. All possible participants are known; they are the members of established families. When they seek the destruction of an enemy they do the killing themselves. They want satisfaction, not merely the murder of a stranger.

Still, feud killings used to be a shameful blot on the developing civilization of the United States. Nothing has happened to make them any easier to justify—nothing, that is, but a system of commercialized murder which makes an old fashioned murderer who kills a man from ambush to satisfy a family hatred a superior sort of criminal. He at least knows the name of his victim.

Roosevelt, the Diagnostician.

There is general agreement on all points of Governor Roosevelt's Salt Lake City speech covering the nation's railroads. He is entitled to whatever credit belongs to the man who sees clearly what others have seen after patient and diligent investigation.

Significantly, the Republican counter-attack following the speech is not aimed at ideas. It is, rather, an attempt to show that the governor's grasp of the railroad situation is no better than President Hoover's. The Democratic candidate's program, barring a few minor points, is virtually the same as the Republican candidate's program.

This automatically bars from national politics discussion of the difficulties which railroads variously have been forced to meet and have made for themselves from getting into national politics. On another major national problem the two parties are so close together that important differences do not exist. Both advocate approximately the same remedial measures; both have the same chance to make their measures effective.

Railroad history in the United States is a story of socialized industry adjusted awkwardly to the principle of private enterprise. From their inception railroads have depended on and have used and abused the powers of the state. When it was profitable for them to do so, they have stood on their own feet and defied government. When it was unprofitable, they have alternately derided the state for making it so or have gone to Washington with their hands out for help.

It does no good to argue the rights and wrongs of the past, however. Millions of Americans are interested directly in railroads through investments and employment. Every American is interested indirectly because rail transportation is a public service. All balanced programs for helping the railroads are founded on assistance to the people. Railroads are socialized industry in fact, if not in name. Public policy will be shaped with that fact foremost in mind, regardless of who shapes it.

Comment of the Press

OHIO SUGAR.

There is a well-defined effort now under way to help Ohio farmers by promoting the use of beet sugar grown and refined in Ohio.

Statisticians of the industry have figured that 6,000,000 hours of agricultural and industrial employment are afforded to Ohio labor annually by the beet sugar industry in this state.

But if Ohio housewives used Ohio sugar exclusively and all the sugar consumed in Ohio were produced within the state this labor would be multiplied to 48,000,000 hours with $15,000,000 of income disbursed to Ohio farmers and $8,000,000 paid to 25,000 workmen in the form of salaries and wages. In addition $4,000,000 would be distributed around for supplies and materials.

Every 100-pound bag of foreign sugar brought into the state deprives a man of a day's labor, it is figured.

For many years there has been some prejudice against beet sugar even in the sections where it is produced. But scientists have long since proved that sugar is sugar. An eminent authority says that Ohio-made beet sugar is pure sugar and has no superior. The content of sugar follows unchangeable chemical laws. Pure sugar is the same whether from cane or beet or some other product of nature.

Consumption of Ohio sugar surely will encourage the farmers by boosting one of their prime cash crops.—Toledo Times.

$30,000,000 IN PENNIES.

There is one section of the population that seems not to have felt the depression keenly as yet and that isn't hoarding its money. We refer to the small boys and girls whose major financial transaction is involved in a trip to the corner store to spend a few pennies for candy.

While the market for high grade confectionery has shrunk greatly, the class that may be lumped as "penny candies" has held stable, government statistics tell us. Last year American manufacturers sold 180,000,000 pounds of these penny candies for more than $26,000,000. The retail prices, the Commerce Department statistics suggest, probably amounted to twice that total.

So when your small son or daughter goes off to spend a penny or two he or she is contributing a bit toward a $30,000,000 item in the building of prosperity.—Columbus Citizen.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Economic Ills Present Health Problem.

I can think of nothing more timely than to warn you of the present need for conservation of strength and health. Reports from many hospitals and welfare agencies indicate an increase of illness throughout the land.

Though the death rate for the past two years has been low, there has been a definite increase in the infectious and deficiency diseases, showing that the need of proper attention to diet and health is of national importance and must not be neglected.

In times of economic stress it is more necessary than ever to cultivate healthful habits. Worry is often worse than disease. Worry interferes with appetite and normal digestion. Loss of appetite, gastric distress, constipation, loss of weight, headache, disturbed sleep and other disturbances too numerous to mention can be traced to worry.

If you have problems, remember that ill health will make your load heavier. Above all, do not economize by cutting down on your food and the necessary rest and recreation. Eat freely of fruits and vegetables. Meals should be regular and ample time should be set aside for each meal.

Drink at least six to eight glasses of water daily. Proper daily elimination is necessary. Alcohol, tobacco, tea, coffee and condiments should be taken in extreme moderation and drugs should be avoided.

A minimum of eight hours of sleep is necessary for the average individual. Remember that with lack of sleep it is necessary to expend twice as much energy to accomplish the same amount of work. If you have any difficulty in sleeping, take a brisk walk before bedtime. A warm bath and a warm glass of milk taken before retiring will be beneficial.

Of course, if you have an ailment it is necessary to receive the proper medical attention. If you can not afford a private physician, do not neglect yourself but apply at a hospital clinic or board of health station, where you will receive medical treatment and advice. If you are physically fit, guard and respect your health, for it will give you greater resistance against attacks of worry and disease.

Get out in the open air as much as possible. Hold your chin up, your stomach in and your spine erect. Walk and act as if living were a joy. I have no doubt that this attitude will aid each of us to deal successfully with the present distressing but temporary problems.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

P.P. Q.—What do you advise for constipation?

A.—Correct the diet and avoid poor elimination. For further particulars send self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

* * *

O.B. Q.—I am 18, 4 ft. 10 inches tall, what should I weigh?

A.—You should weigh about 108 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

* * *

H.B. Q.—Would dark glasses relieve eye-strain?

A.—Possibly. But it would be wise to have your eyes examined to determine whether or not you need glasses.

* * *

Mrs. B. Q.—Is deep breathing good for one who has a spot on the lung?

A.—Yes; should prove helpful.

* * *

W.S.J. Q.—What causes itching of the legs?

A.—This may be due to pruritis, caused by constipation or auto-intoxication. Certain diseases of the nervous system may also cause this condition. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

* * *

Miss G.A. Q.—What do you advise for dry brittle nails?

A.—Soak them in warm olive oil. This should prove helpful.

* * *

A.J. Q.—Can a large nose be reduced?

A.—Consult a plastic surgeon.—Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Sept. 21—Habitues of the galleries of congress who thrilled at the idea that perhaps Gene Tunney would come down from Connecticut some day to sit in the senate may have as great a treat in store after next March fourth.

For advance reports reaching Washington indicated that Connecticut Republicans had hit upon one Mr. Thomas Albert Dwight Jones as the man they hope to place in Col. Johnny Trumbull Nilson's seat in the house.

This Mr. Jones is "Tad" Jones, Yale's famous football and baseball star as an undergraduate and more recently head coach of Eli's gridiron teams. Of course before Jones enters the house, he must beat his Democratic opponent in November.

* * *

Jones will not be the first man to enter the field of national politics by way of the athletic route. If he should enter the house, he would have as a colleague a South Carolinian whose proud boast is that his ability as a baseball player once kept him—or at least had a lot to do with sending him to congress.

Tommy McMillan was once a star on the Charleston club of the Sally league.

Ted would find plenty of company among his colleagues in the house. Many of the representatives won fame in their younger days as athletes. Fred Purnell of Indiana, a Republican leader of the house, was a champion pole vaulter at the University of Indiana. Hamilton Fish of New York, a Harvard football star, was captain of the team for one year. And is an old grid foe of Ted's.

Rankhead of Alabama was a star fullback at 'Bama when he was in college. Dick Kleberg of Texas won note as a pitcher at the University of Texas and turned down the offer of a big league contract.

* * *

Carl Bachman of West Virginia, the Republican whip, was an all-around athlete at the University of West Virginia. Lou Douglas, youthful representative from Arizona, was a baseball star at Amherst.

Fred Vinson of Kentucky still is remembered at Centre college for his ability to play baseball. The lanky Elmer of Mississippi was a diamond star at the University of Mississippi.

Fred Britten of Illinois once was an amateur boxer of note. And over in the senate Barbour of New Jersey once was hailed as a potential heavyweight champion boxer.

Daily Talk to Parents

BY ALICE JUDSON PEALY

MORNING CEREAL.

As usual, Nancy dawdled over her cereal, stirring it round and round, playing with the milk, running it out of a spoon from a height, to the accompaniment of splashing sounds and the appearance of spots on the table cloth.

As she played she glanced sideways at her mother and waited for the customary, "Now, Nancy, stop playing and eat."

But, although she played even more diligently and inventively, she beheld only Mother's profile as she gazed out of the window.

"Mother," said Nancy finally, "I don't want my cereal. Must I eat it?"

The classic response to this ever since Nancy could remember, had been, "Why, of course, dear, you must eat it. How else do you think you'll get to be a big strong girl?"

But this morning, to Nancy's utter bafflement, mother only answered, "No, you don't have to eat it if you are not hungry. But, of course, if you leave it, you might find yourself pretty hungry in the middle of the morning, and you know there won't be anything to eat 'til dinner."

"But, Mother," cried Nancy in tones of outrage and amazement, "aren't you disappointed in me? Aren't you worried?"

Mother recognized the echoes of her own habitual pleading, but she answered quite calmly, "No, I've decided not to be disappointed any more and I'm not worried either.

"You see, I told our doctor yesterday how much you weigh, and he says that's quite enough for a child of your age and size. So now I won't expect you to eat unless you are hungry."

Whereupon mother widely turned her attention to the morning paper. When she looked up from it the cereal bowl was empty.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. R. GALBREATH

OHIO AND SUFFRAGE.

Ohio stands fifth in the list of states as to the order in which they adopted the suffrage amendment, but as a matter of fact she was fourth, for an error was found in the attempted adoption by Illinois, which was the first state to act—June 10, 1919—and it was necessary to ratify it and that was done on June 17, which was one day after the state of Ohio had given its approval.

Though this is the last amendment to the Constitution, many are hasty as to its proposal by congress and its ratification by the states. The house first adopted the amending resolution in January, 1918, but the senate refused to join. On May 21, 1919, the house readopted the resolution and the senate this time agreed—June 4, 1919.

It is one of the shortest amendments to the Constitution, just 42 words arranged in two paragraphs.

Europe Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

At Sea, Sept. 21—De luxe trans-Atlantic boating received a mighty larruping in the depression. This baroque barque symbolizes the decadence in mass grandeur affecting all. None escaped. A usual first class passenger list of 600 is shucked down to slightly more than 400.

To the credit of all lines, I hear that despite wage cuts, rate slicing, etc., super service has been maintained. Certainly it has here. But I've been a newspaperman too long to acquire the art of leisure. The foliating of galeties is, for me, like sending tired Old Rover through the flaming hoop.

Stringencies of the day, however, bring one notable curtailment in pleasure. There is no auction pool on the day's run. After desultory bidding the first night, it was abandoned. A hat pool finds few takers. Ocean greyhounds—the gamblers—have vanished. One cabin boats now get the play.

The charm of one cabin boats is simple democracy. Every passenger is on equal footing. There was always something snide and un-American about Second and Third Class. I once luxuriated with a group of writers first class to Europe. The most finished writer of all, David Garnett of England, was in the steerage.

Near our dining table sits an olive skinned brunette I imagined was the Spanish Princess on the passenger list. This morning I overheard her say: "I seen him in a filsium at the Roxy." The glamour of a ship makes it difficult to distinguish between Madrid and Rivington street.

* * *

While the ship, a honeycomb of light, rolled through darkening swells at 2 a. m., it was suddenly becalmed. Rhythm of engines diminuendoed to a purr. Subdued voices were heard in anxious murmur from surrounding cabins. In the phantom stillness, I glanced apprehensively at the life-belt. Today I learned a baby boy was born in the steerage.

* * *

Among first class passengers is Pal, with a private suite aft on top deck. Too, he has his private sun pavilion and swimming pool. Pal is a trained seal on his way to appear at the Palladium in London. It must be billiards to be kept by a seal. From his owner I learn, seals are more easily trained than dogs. It is possible for Pal to escape, waddle to the ship side and vanish. But he doesn't. Many humans, I suppose, could enjoy similar freedom if we made the break, or don't you care for sermons.

* * *

Three days out, a liner congeals into a gossipy floating village. In the smoking room today, I heard a great capitalist was aboard, incognito, in a de luxe suite with two cases of his especial brand of bourbon. Thus he stays semi-comatose from the three-mile limit until Plymouth. It's his annual relaxation. Or so goes the rumor.

At the captain's dinner, I was impressed from the sidelines at the grand entrance of a six-pound salmon from the Columbia river mud flats. It came in opalescent glow on an enormously fringed silver platter held high by three white-ducked servitors. About it was a rainbowed garnish—red beets, green beans, yellow carrots, etc. The descendant of, perhaps, some French ducal family awaited to slice it. All of which shows what happens to a poor fish who behaves himself.

* * *

Also, I'm practically neck-and-neck with Emily Post. I've learned at last, that the gold-plated knife, fork and spoon decorating the French plate side are for fruit and dessert. However, I could handle crepes suzette with a barlow knife in a pinch. And, my dears, you should see me have an affair with a Baked Alaska.

At sea I'm one of those benign simpletons making forlorn attempts to spread cheer among elders. Passing the deck chair of a white-haired lady napping, I adjusted the blanket around her exposed ankles. Her lids fluttered and, with fretful boredom, she sighed: "Somebody is forever tucking me in."

* * *

Harry Silver has passed up the ship vamp and walks under the stars with a waxen-white ethereal creature of sulky beauty. He was glowery at breakfast about her spiritual radiance. But I'm skeptical. In the promiscuity of an ocean liner, I have known men to mistake pernicious anemia for a touch of spirituelle.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

DE-NATURED MODERN LOVERS.

Racketeers thrive on man's foolish desire to get something for nothing. Philanderers thrive on woman's willingness to accept nothing for something.

In order to survive what some men call their "love-making," a girl's lipstick must be kiss-proof, her emotions shock-proof and her vanity bullet-proof.

* * *

Love is a relative thing, after all. What is love to a college boy would seem like burlesque to a polished philanderer; and what is love to a poet would seem like heroism to a hard-boiled business man.

* * *

A married woman starts buying her own flowers when she orders her bridal bouquet.

To a marriage-shy man, Leap Year merely means that he will have to be a little more agile in leaping from girl to girl, without losing his balance or his grip on his freedom.

Mother remembers the day when a lover begged humbly and passionately for "just one kiss". But if a man made any such modest request to a modern girl, she would think he was holding out on her—the piker!

"A husband used to be personal property," says Reno Ruth, "But in this day of progressive-matrimony, you always have the annoying feeling that a lot of other women are merely waiting for you to get through with your husband and "turn him in" again, like a library book."

Marriage is a different sort of gamble. If you gamble in stocks and lose, you've got nothing left; but if you gamble in marriage and lose, you've still got your "punishment" on your hands.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Sept. 21, 1922.

President Harding signed the Forney-McCumber tariff bill. He was quoted as saying: "The bill was long in the making, but if we succeed, as I hope, in making effective the elastic provisions of the measure, it will be the greatest contribution toward progress in tariff making in the nation's history."

Miss Lottie Kelley of Caledonia and Don W. Qualintance of Crawford county were married at Epworth M. E. parsonage by Dr. Jesse Swank.

A crowd estimated at over 15,000 attended the Marion county fair. There were six race events. General T. winning the 2.16 trot, Vaomi V the 2:15 pace, Hugh Watts the 2:22 trot, Jakie O'Connor the free-for-all pace, Martha L the second division of the 2.13 pace, and Precious the one-mile running race.

At the season's first meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association it was decided to hold after school classes in instrumental music to develop talent among the young people. A committee consisting of Mrs. H. S. Kramer, Mrs. E. E. Parish, and Mrs. Arthur VanAtta was named to cooperate with Miss Sara Taylor, school music teacher, and Herman Copp head of school orchestra work, in the new program.

A birthday surprise party was given for Mrs. Frank McDaniels at her home on Silver street by members of the J. N. club.

Hostesses at a musicale and tea given at the Marion Country club were Mrs. D. W. Evans, Mrs. H. K. Mouser, Mrs. George G. Kleinmaier, Mrs. M. C. McNeil, Mrs. G. W. Jakeway and Mrs. A. H. Honnahner.

Teddy Myers of Buffalo won the decision in a 12-round bout that was the main go of the boxing show given at the armory by the Marion Athletic association.

Triplets, two boys and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thompson at their home on Clinton street. The parents had moved here from Marysville the day preceding the birth.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Saturday, Sept. 21, 1912.

Following official denial by the Mexican government that several wealthy Americans had financed the Madero revolution, it was intimated that United States authorities would be asked to arrest Jean P. Dippap, revolutionary emissary to the U. S. and author of the false report, and hold him for extradition to Mexico.

The Republican campaign was opened in Ohio with a rally in Columbus addressed by United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. Senator Lodge made no mention of Roosevelt's "Bull Moose" candidate for the Presidency, but attacked the record of the Democratic congress and appealed for the reelection of President Taft.

W. D. Clark, owner of the Columbia theater on East Center street, announced that high class vaudeville would start at the 5th theater on West Center street. The Sun is now known as the State.

It was announced that extensive improvements by the Erie railroad here, including second tracks, new yards and terminal facilities would be completed by May, 1913.

John A. Foos, 88, one of Marion county's oldest residents, died at his home near Caledonia.

Mr. and Mrs. David Marion and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bachman returned from an automobile trip to Detroit.

An unknown native of Italy shot and killed Antonio Francis, a fellow countryman, in a brawl in a saloon at the corner of Kenney avenue and Starr street. The slayer escaped.

The engagement of Miss Cora Hecker of Marion to Burton V. Moore of Los Angeles, Calif., was announced at a dinner party given at the J. R. Reichenbach home on Windsor street.

Miss Helen Atchison was hostess to a company of girl friends at a miscible party at the home of Orchard street.

Nan sat up straight. She saw a green field dotted with henhouses and a neglected garden that had grown right up to the walls of an old stone house. The whole place looked uncared for.

"What a frightful place!" she said.

Jervis laughed.

"A bit untidy! It's been empty for ever so long. I must say he doesn't seem in a hurry to get things straight."

"It's a hateful house," said Nan, looking at it. "I'm not surprised it was empty a long time—I shouldn't think anyone would want to live there ever."

Jervis slowed down as they went past.

"It belonged to a famous smuggler called Old Foxy Fixon. He lived about a hundred years ago, and after his grandson died people said the place was haunted, and nobody would live there. It's still called Old Foxy Fixon's house. It belongs to the Tetterleys, and I expect they were very glad to get it let."

A bare quarter of a mile farther on they turned in at the Tetterleys' gate.

Basher, alias George Tetterley, proved to be a massive, silent person. He had kind eyes, and a ridiculously soft voice which he used as little as possible. Janet Tetterley talked enough for half a dozen.

Rosamund did not appear until lunch had been announced, when she strolled in looking exquisitely cool.

"Robert's going to be late. Something's the matter with that car of his. It just got us here and no more. He's tinkering with it down at the garage. I say the junkheap's the only cure. The brute nearly killed us yesterday, and I've told him I'm not going out in her again."

Leonard came in halfway through lunch. He looked hot, and explained that he hadn't been able to get his car going. Nan had been placed between him and her host. She had, therefore, an empty chair on one side of her for the first 20 minutes or so.

George Tetterley made one remark about the weather, and another about the crops. Before, after, and between these remarks he ate his lunch. Oddly enough, Nan did not find this silence unpleasant. He looked at her kindly and seemed to take it for granted that they should both listen to the flow of conversation from the rest of the party. He smiled appreciatively once or twice, frowned when his wife produced a piece of unpleasant gossip about a neighbor, and did more than justice to the efforts of the new cook.

When Robert Leonard took the empty chair beside her, Nan would have preferred a more conversational neighbor on her other side. In desperation she leaned towards her host and said.

"Mrs. Tetterley said you used to know my father's people."

He nodded and said,

"Long ago."

"Will you tell me about them? They quarrelled with him about his marriage, and I've never seen any of them."

"Haven't seen them for years," said he, "twenty years. Used to stay there when I was a young fellow—very kind to me and all that."

"My father had a sister," said Nan. "I'm called after her."

"Yes," said Mr. Tetterley, "that's why I thought you belonged to the family. She wasn't Anne, you know; she was Nan—christened Nan."

"So am I," said Nan. "Am I like her?"

"Yes," said George Tetterley—"very." His face and his voice were quite expressionless.

"Do tell me about her. Is she alive?"

He shook his head.

"Did she marry?"

"Yes—quite a good chap."

From the other side of the table came Ferdinand's voice:

"When I was in Mexico in '24 ...." He proceeded to tell a lively story of an encounter with a guerilla band. The name of Pedro Ramirez emerged from it. It appeared that Ferdinand had been uncommonly lucky to have escaped the undesired role of providing entertainment for a temporarily idle band. "They'd got a really high-class show all fixed up, with me for the star performer. There was a Mazeppa turn, with me for Mazeppa, and the worst-tempered bronchio in the bunch for the Wild Horse of the Ukraine."

"Did you do Mazeppa?" interrupted Janet Tetterley.

"Well," said Ferdinand, ignoring her, "this is a very instructive tale—one of the mother's-knee kind, on the text of 'If you do a good turn, it'll come back to roost.' I'd done my good turn eight years before and forgotten all about it. I'm not going to tell you what it was, because I've got a modest disposition, but just when those bright boys were going to get going with their quick-shooters, that good turn came home to roost."

"You're not telling us how you got away," said Mrs. Tetterley.

"Pardon me, Mrs. Tetterley, that is what I am doing." He paused and looked around the table.

George was smiling; Rosamund Carew lighting a cigaret with an air of calm detachment; Jervis—well, just Jervis; Janet Tetterley faintly bored at the digression; Robert Leonard in the act of lifting a tumbler to his lips; and Nan an eager child waiting for the end of the story.

"My 'good turn' was a man called Hermann Eisenthal."

Robert Leonard's glass continued its upward way; He drank as if he was thirsty and set it down.

Ferdinand was looking at Janet Tetterley. But those glancing eyes of his certainly had the faculty of being able to see two things at once. He had most certainly seen the knuckles whiten on Robert Leonard's broad red hand. Ferdinand judged that the glass it was holding had missed becoming a casualty by a fairly narrow margin. He finished his story.

"Hermann Eisenthal remembered the good turn which F. F. had forgotten. He had the guerilla chief in his pocket. And if you've ever been all trussed up and ready to take the floor as a high-class target you'll know just how glad I was to see Hermann. I tell you he'd got Pedro Ramirez eating out of his hand. Well, I've often thought it would be interesting to know what the bait was."

Ferdinand's bright brown eyes went past Robert Leonard to Nan. Perhaps they were looking for something as they passed. Perhaps they found what they were looking for.

"Your husband wasn't with me that time, Mrs. Jervis," he said, "or I'd have put the whole thing down to his luck. He's the kind that falls on his feet, you know."

To Be Continued.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Sept. 22

A DAY on which much depends on personal effort and the wise manipulation of fresh opportunities is forecast from the lunar aspects. The position of Uranus points to a minor change, journey or removal, and this may be attended by some hazard through the signing of papers or making of agreements. There are loopholes for fraud or misrepresentation. Be discreet in writings and talking.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of minor changes of benefit, with either travel, removal or change of associates and environment. It is advised that particular care be exercised in the signing of all documents and writings and that a curb be put upon speech and correspondence. There are signs of slander, fraud or misrepresentations, through carelessness in this respect. A child born on this day may be original, clever and adaptable, but inclined to gain its ends by its wit, schemes or crafty methods. Its speech should be supervised in youth.

Notable Nativity: Guy Bates Post, Actor.

BRIDE OF BRITISH SPEED KING

A charming picture of Mrs. Kaye Don, the former Elleen Margesh, of Greenwich, Conn., whose marriage to the British speedboat racer attracted the interest of the social and sporting world. Don (inset), who recently competed against Gar Wood for the Harmsworth trophy at Detroit, sailed for England soon after the quiet wedding at Greenwich. He will be joined in Europe by his bride, who is a daughter of the socially prominent Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Martin, for a honeymoon in Italy.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Lee Chow Joins the Rescue Party Ready for Attack, and Brings Important News, Which He Reveals to Hugh Grantland.

THERE was something in Hugh Grantland's voice that jarred upon me as he uttered his fervent welcome to me when he had heard me give the password to the mountain rendezvous with which Wynne had provided me. For in his brief salutation, "Margaret! you did join us, after all!" there seemed not only joy at my arrival but a note of triumph.

Did he imagine, I asked myself with hot resentment, that my presence, with its corollary of a broken promise to Dicky, was due to the fact that I had weighed his arguments for my being present to care for the girls upon their release against my pledge to Dicky, and that the promise to my husband had lost?

An Astonished Greeting

"I had no choice in the matter," I said more coldly than the occasion demanded. "I intended to stay in the hotel, as I had promised, but I had an urgent message from Lee Chow to come to the school."

"Lee Chow!" Hugh exclaimed, but I went steadily on—"which I dared not disregard. And then, as there was no one else to guide him to you, I was compelled to come with him."

"Where is he?" Hugh asked, and there was in his voice the first hint of impatience toward me I had ever heard. With an emotion remotely resembling chagrin, of which I was heartily ashamed, I realized that Lee Chow's unexpected arrival dwarfed everything else in Hugh's mind. For the moment I was of no importance whatever to him except as the herald of his Chinese friend.

"I am here." Lee Chow stepped past me, and the two friends clasped hands.

"I thought those devils of the farmhouse," Hugh began, but Lee Chow stopped him.

"I must talk to you immediately," he said peremptorily. "I have important news, but for your ear alone."

The two men stepped aside and were immediately swallowed up by the blackness. Mary and I stood alone, for the guard had withdrawn as soon as Hugh appeared; but even as we involuntarily drew close to each other Harry Underwood's big figure appeared in front of us, followed closely by my father and Philip Veritzen.

"The Lady Fair, by all that's holy!" Harry Underwood said, but his voice was like a whisper. "And our little Mary! What brought—"

"Margaret!" My father's low voice held astonishment and alarm. "Why are you here?"

But even before I could answer, Mary's low, vibrant voice sounded imperatively.

"Where's Noel?"

There was something in her voice that told me why she had so flatly interrupted my father, for Mary's pretty, deferential courtesy to older people is one of her chief charms. Her poignant anxiety for her lover's safety had vanquished not only her deference, but the caution which she invariably uses in speaking of or to Noel when his father is present.

Noel Is Safe

She patently had put away the remembrance of Philip Veritzen's two campaigns against her, the first open, the second secret. She evidently had forgotten, also, what was more important—that since the episode of Avis Arlen, Noel's father had showed slight but unmistakable signs of a changed attitude toward his son's fiancee. But Philip Veritzen is so variable in temperament that I feared this display of imperious possessiveness upon Mary's part might undo all that Avis Arlen's behavior, so distasteful to the great dramatic producer, had accomplished.

The elder Veritzen was given no opportunity to reply, however. Indeed, the question had not been directed at him, and my father spoke gently, but quickly.

"He is only a few rods away, with Brock, at our last outpost before the point of attack."

Mary caught her breath, and he added with a swift reassurance.

"It's no safe place as this, dear, and so far everything appears to be moving without a hitch. But where is Hugh? What—"

There was a sharper note in his voice, a surprised intonation, as Wynne said "Him-sorry," hearing their insect burden, unnoticed out of the darkness.

"We found Samuel Stetson in an abandoned shack a little way back," I said. "Lee Chow thought—"

CIVIC ORCHESTRA TO PLAY AT PAVILION

Marion Organization Will Present Concert Tuesday Night at Garfield Park.

Tickets have been placed on sale by the Marion Civic orchestra for its concert Tuesday night at 8:15 at the Chautauqua pavilion. The concert will be the first of the season's musical events in Marion, and will bring two accomplished guest musicians to Marion.

The orchestra will present as its guests, Don Aurelius of Napoleon, widely known piano soloist, who is now giving a series of recitals in Chicago, and Paul Garfinkle, first violinist with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, who has been visiting his parents in Galion this summer.

Mr. Aurelius studied extensively abroad and was an honor pupil of Mier and Patterson at the University of Michigan. Mr. Garfinkle, whose home is in Chicago, will return to the Minneapolis Symphony shortly after the concert Tuesday night.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased from members of the orchestra, the Canto club, the Marion Lecture-Recital club, the Henry Ackerman Piano Co. store or Bert Myers drug store at Prospect and Superior street. John Muntzinger is business manager in charge of the ticket sale.

The concert is the largest enterprise the orchestra has sponsored since its organization last winter. Bert Myers is conductor. The personnel of the orchestra is made up of musicians from Marion and surrounding communities, who meet Monday night of each week for rehearsals.

STALIN'S RUSSIAN RULE MENACED

COMMISSAR VOROSHILOFF — LEON TROTSKY — JOSEPH STALIN.

By International News Service

LONDON—The old maxim, "Uh-happy lies the head that wears a crown," may, in these latter days when kings are a rarity, be applied with equal versatility to dictators, if ominous reports emanating from the land of the Soviets are to be given credence. For, we are told, momentous happenings are looming in the paradise of the Five-Year-Plan.

The reports, which followed the discovery of a plot to assassinate Joseph Stalin, Red Caesar, and the wholesale arrests of 120 persons, including several high communistic army officers, are persistent to the effect that Stalin's regime as lord of life and death over the 150,000,000 Russians that populate over one-sixth of the globe's surface, is as good as finished.

It is furthermore confidently predicted that the man who will step into Stalin's place as engineer-in-chief of the five-year-plan is one of those allegedly implicated in the plot to send the Dictator to a happier land—Commissar of War Voroshiloff.

To keen observers who have followed the progress of the Soviet Union for the last year or two, the ousting of Stalin would come as no surprise. The Five-Year-Plan is not finishing in the blaze of glory which was confidently expected, and Russia is not far advanced from where she was on the death of Nicolai Lenin, founder of the Soviet and Russia's patron saint.

Responsibility for this lag in schedule has been placed on Stalin's doorstep by his political opponents, many of whom recall that the immortal Lenin never had a high opinion of Stalin's abilities, having once advised his removal from the party. Too, they remember Stalin's treatment of Leon Trotsky, who with Lenin did more towards the formation of the republic than any other living Russian. Trotsky, former commissar of war, who had risen from a movie extra to be one of the guiding lights of the Soviet, had always opposed the Stalin-controlled machine. Idol of the Red army though he was, Trotsky was unable to halt the growing power of the ambitious Stalin. And his opposition to the dictator finally resulted in his being sent into exile.

Since then Trotsky has wandered about Europe and Asia, virtually a man without a country. But he has never ceased his war on Stalin, whose policy of concentrating on Russia itself is, in Trotsky's opinion, in direct contradiction to the teachings of Lenin, the master. Trotsky believes that the revolutionary doctrine should spread outside the Russian borders to take in the whole world, asserting that the Russian upheaval was primarily intended, not to transform Russia into a reactionary Utopia, but to lead a revolution of the entire world.

It was only a short time ago that the exiled Trotsky proclaimed that Stalin's rule was tottering. He is said to have antagonized the workers by his bureaucratic methods, and in the final analysis it is the good will of the workers that counts. Without it neither Stalin, nor anyone else, can long retain power.

Voroshiloff Powerful

Little is known of Commissar Voroshiloff, who, observers say, is slated to snatch the reins from the hand of Stalin. But it is evident that he has quite a large following, for he boldly proposes to abandon the futile policies of the present dictator and return to the doctrines and aims of Lenin. With the mighty Red army behind him, it is pretty safe to predict that he holds the whip hand and is in a position to dictate terms.

Meanwhile, though the life of a living leader in Russia is full of ups and downs, the dead one still retains the gigantic following he had in life. Nickolai Lenin lies in his magnificent mausoleum in the Red Square, unseeing and unheeding in the midst of the turmoil he helped create, but his tomb is the Mecca for patriotic Russians. Never a day but thousands of those he freed from serfdom come to pay homage to his memory. It is ironical, but quite feasible, to think that had the great Lenin lived he, too, might be an outcast like his friend Trotsky is today and as Stalin may be tomorrow.

THEY'RE MILDER
THEY TASTE BETTER

YOU would be astonished too, if you could see this machine that turns out 750 Chesterfields a minute . . . and every one as near perfect as cigarettes can be made.

But please bear this in mind. It is what happens before the tobacco goes into this machine that matters most. Rolling and packaging are important, but not nearly as important as the selection, blending and treatment of the tobacco.

That's why we keep telling you about the tobaccos used in Chesterfields. They're fine, mild, and pure tobaccos. We tell you about ageing and curing the tobaccos . . . about blending and cross-blending them . . . because they are things that count.

Chesterfields are milder. They taste better. Prove it for yourself . . . Just try a package.

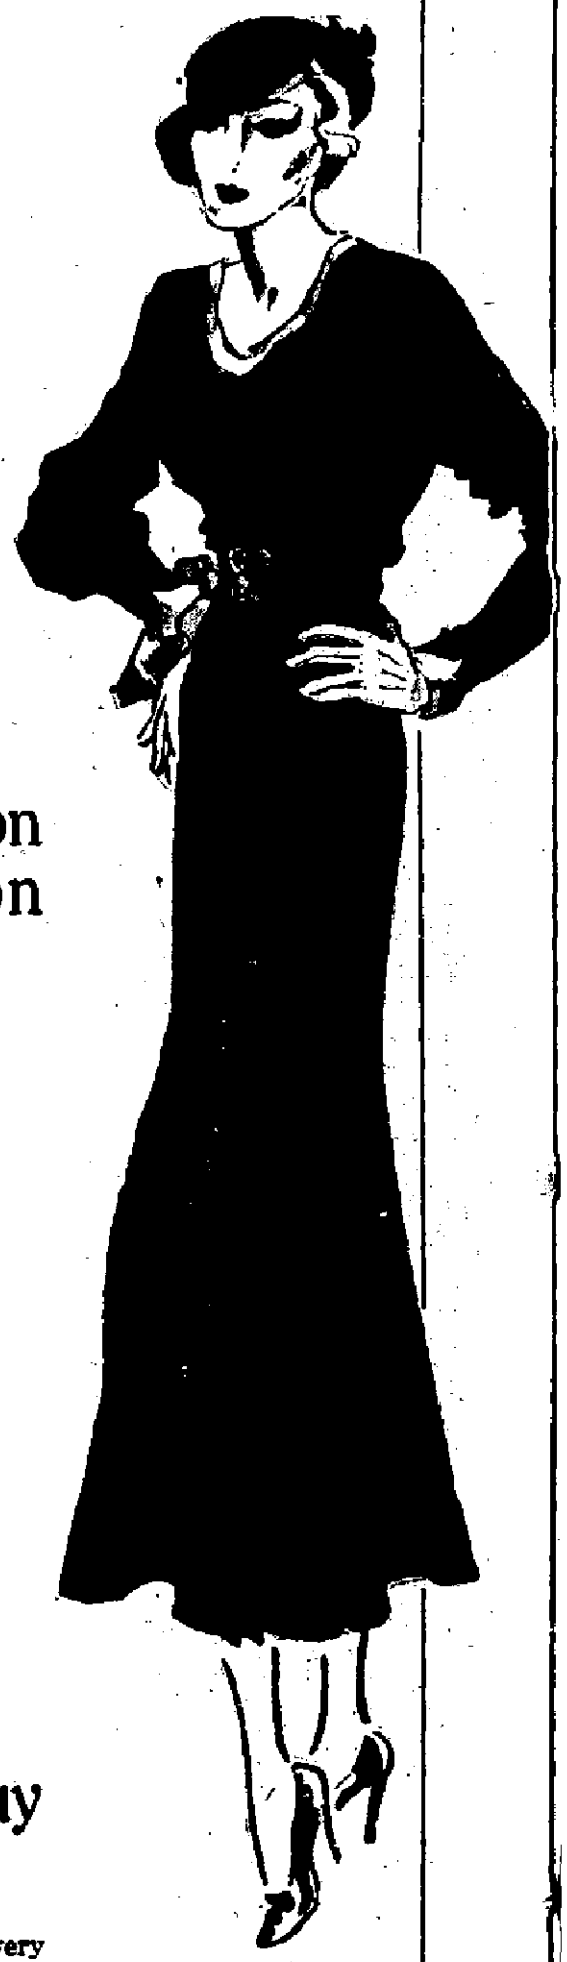
FALL FASHIONS



In Which Economy Without Reason Swings To Quality Within Reason

For Men—For Women—For The Home

Time was . . . and not so long ago . . when a high price was the sole measure of style. Today the value of a new style trend INCREASES as the price DROPS . . for more people can avail themselves of the article which expresses that style. Which . . getting down to facts . . . means just this; Style will be a bigger factor this year than ever before, for prices are way down to the point where new fall wardrobes will fit nearly every budget.

MARION---a good place to buy

A brand new season is just unfolding . . . presenting to every one boundless opportunity to express their smarter selves in the lovely and practical new fashions that our Marion stores now show us. And, this fall more than ever before, quality within reason displaces economy without reason. Every store in Marion leans heavily toward quality and style. You'll find an amazing range of sparkling styles in the merchandise now displayed by Marion stores for Fall wear.

The MARION STAR

BRINGS YOU THE COMPLETE STORY OF THE NEW STYLES AND SAVINGS IN MARION STORES!

Rain Fails To Halt Grid Drills of Buckeye Elevens

OHIO TEAMS DRIVEN THROUGH WORKOUTS AS FIRST TILTS NEAR

Ohio State In Two-Hour Practice; Cauthier Works Bishops Hard.

By The Associated Press

Most of Ohio's college football teams got a good soaking yesterday, as their coaches refused to let rain halt practices. Fumbles were plenty, but it was good training in the handling of a slippery ball, and for the demonstrating of wet-day strategy.

Ohio State's gridders got two driving sessions of blocking, tackling and passing, and temporarily lost the services of Captain Lew Hinchman, halfback, who was placed on the injured list with a bruised back.

When the Ohio State Reserves play Akron, Saturday, they probably will find "Jumpy" Chordier, a halfback, doing much of the ball-carrying for the Zippers. Chordier is slated to replace Moe Moyer, who is out with a wrenched shoulder.

Coach George Gauthier welcomed the downpour at Ohio Wesleyan, and sent his charges through two hours of hard work. Coach Rich expressed like sentiments in ordering the Denison squad into a regular scrimmage.

Several sophomores gave a good account of themselves at the University of Cincinnati, and there was good news in several other camps. Dick Paxton, 1930 veteran halfback, returned to the Ashland squad. Otterbein's hopes were brightened by the return of Short, star backfield man.

Findlay, however, lost Colin Haas, halfback, for the Dayton game Friday night. He sprained a leg ligament in scrimmage. Heidelberg was cheered by the speed shown by Ed Zaipfel, 210-pound tackle.

Oberlin's players went through a double session of drop kicking and punting, but there was rough work at Alliance where Coach Gelb sent the Mount Union squad through a long practice in blocking.

The Wooster boys got down to actual business with plays Coach Bolo plans to use against Ashland. Forty members of the Kent State squad were given a light scrimmage, and 20 freshmen reported for action at Hiram.

LEGAL NOTICE

Albert LaSalle, residence unknown, is hereby notified that Emma Bertha LaSalle has filed her petition against him for a divorce and restoration of maiden name in Case No. 22813 of the Common Pleas Court of Marion County, Ohio, and that said cause will be for hearing on or after November 3rd, 1932.

DAN HOWLEY

RELEASE OF HOWLEY AS PILOT OF REDS APPEARS PROBABLE

Cincinnati Enquirer Reports Last Place Club To Have New Head.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 21—The Enquirer said today that it is known Dan Howley will not remain as manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

The pilot of the National league cellar club, the paper says, is negotiating for an interest in the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International league, which he once managed. If the deal is consummated, he will hold an executive position, but will not be manager.

Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati club, said he would have something to say today on Howley's status. He denied last night his release had been decided upon definitely.

The Enquirer says Howley told Weil a month ago he was perfectly willing to withdraw.

Howley's three-year contract, under which he drew $20,000 a year, expires Sunday.

Weil intends to take his time selecting a successor, according to the Enquirer, but has promised a decision before the National league meeting in December. The paper says rumors have named Donnie Bush, of the Minneapolis club of the American Association.

Tourney Continues.

DAYTON, O., Sept. 21—The national amateur baseball tournament entered its third day with prospect of fair weather. Yesterday's games were postponed because of rain.

Comparing Figures

Softball fans can find some interesting figures in comparing statistics of the Little World series completed this week and the 1931 series. The Presbyterians were city champs last season but were dethroned by the K. of P. this year.

The team batting average of the Presbies dropped from .265 last season to .169 this year. The K. of P. smashed out the best average, .256, against the high of .246 for the Presbies in '31. Errors were far less frequent this season than last, 26 being committed this season compared with 52 last season. Last year St. Mary had within two as many as all four teams together this year.

Stealing the Show

When it comes to pitching records Dale Schwaderer, right-handed star of the current city titlists, far surpassed anything in the way of pitching recorded in previous seasons. Schwaderer struck out 42 men and allowed a total of 23 hits in 33 innings. He handed out 16 bases on balls during his work on the knoll. Just as if this little six installment exhibition of how pitching should be done wasn't enough Schwaderer banged out four hits in 18 times at the plate to stand sixth in the list of K.-P. hitters. If stealing the series was larceny, Schwaderer would be a guest of the state for a long time.

K. OF P. TO HONOR CHAMP BALL CLUB

Celebrating the winning of the city softball championship, the K. of P. lodge will honor the team members with a banquet at the lodge hall at 6:30 p. m. on Friday, Sept. 30. Besides members of the team, several officials of the game here will be invited to attend as guests of the lodge. Manager Carroll Davidson has expressed his thanks for the support given them through the season by the team's followers.

PHILS BATTLE HARD TO KNOCK DODGERS FROM THIRD POSITION

Shottonmen Lose Ground by 3-1 Loss, but Are Still in Running.

By The Associated Press

Generally overlooked in the excitement attending the winning of the National league pennant by Chicago has been the surprising fight put up by Burt Shotton's Phillies for a berth in the first division.

Sixth when the curtain went down a year ago, Shotton's sluggers have pounded their way into fourth place and right now are giving the Brooklyn Dodgers the battle of their lives for third. The Dodgers pulled away a little yesterday, increasing their lead to a game and a half by downing the Phillies, 3 to 1, but with four games to go, third place still is at stake.

If the Phils do turn the trick, it will be the first time they have finished that high since 1917, when they ended up in second place. Grover Cleveland Alexander won 30 games for the Phils that year.

The Giants plastered the Braves, 12 to 3. Mel Ott led the assault with four hits, including his thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth home runs, tying him with Chuck Klein for the league leadership.

Monte Weaver further established himself as one of the year's greatest freshman pitchers as he set Boston down with four hits and beat the Red Sox, 4 to 1. Cleveland beat St. Louis twice, 5-2, and 11-2.

BREWERS GAIN IN BATTLE FOR THIRD

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—Milwaukee's Brewers today had a lead of one and one-half games over Indianapolis in the American Association struggle for third place, and a good chance of hanging on.

Taking advantage of Minneapolis' apparent indifference, the Brewers yesterday gave the champions a pair of beatings, 7 to 6, and 8 to 4. The victories ran the Brewers' string to five, and left the Millers with as many defeats in a row.

Indianapolis and Louisville were rained out, helping Milwaukee to increase its lead in the only other activity yesterday. St. Paul and Kansas City divided a doubleheader. The Saints won 8 to 4, in the first game. The Blues took the second 5 to 1.

CUB STOCK SOARS AS FLAG IS WON

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 — Chicago National league baseball club stock would make a great investment for a quick profit—if it could be obtained.

A Chicago brokerage firm, which very occasionally deals in Cub stock reported a sensational rise yesterday afternoon. Its usual range is from 190 to 210, but opened yesterday at 255. One rose in the first inning and it went to 275 bid. At the end of the game it was 300 bid, with the only offering five shares at 350.

Bowling Statistics

Johnny Stewart who does his pin battering under the banner of the Marion Builders' Supply company, stole the show last night as the All-Star league went through its regular Tuesday night schedule. Stewart banged out a score of 632 for three games with a high single game of 223. He dropped below the 200 mark in only one of the three games, touching 194 in the final start. Valentine of the Wright Transfer finished in the runner-up post with a 628 and Boyd of the Smart & Waddell five was third with 612.

Honors for the high single game go to Wells of the Coca Cola quintet with a 256. The Coca Cola team also had the high three-game score with a mark of 2,874. Midland Mutual followed with 2,779 and the Marion Builders' Supply turned in 2,806 to finish third. The Coca Cola team became the first to beat the 1,000 mark for a single game when the team collected a 1,003 score in the second of the three games.

CUBS CINCH PENNANT AS CUYLER CRASHES TRIPLE IN SEVENTH

Flag-Winning Wallop Comes Off Swetonic with Sacks Clogged.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—Chicago's Cubs today were "in," with little in the way of serious business to worry them until a week from today when they oppose the New York Yankees in the opening game of the world series—and they intend to get a little fun out of their baseball.

As soon as Kiki Cuyler smashed one for a triple with the bases loaded in the seventh inning of the first game yesterday, the veteran regulars had earned a rest and they started it in the second game.

KIKI CUYLER

Manager Charlie Grimm almost went right back to work in his 1lit Wins the second game yesterday.

He has announced definitely only one item of his world series plans—that Guy Bush will pitch the opening game at New York. His other pitching selections depend on the outcome of that first game.

The clubhouse celebration after the pennant winning triumph required a little time to develop. Billy Herman was the first player to reach the dressing room. He wore an awed sort of smile. The rest of the youngsters, with the exception of Lonnie Warneke, the sensational young righthander, matched Herman's expression. The older players just beamed—until Grimm, last to come in, appeared.

Then they yelled at Grimm, at each other, and finally demanded a speech from the manager. He obliged with one word, "great," repeated many times. President William L. Veeck congratulated each man, finishing up with Grimm.

WHO IS SHE?
My Dear Mike - As you don't know me, and I don't know you, we do know anyone who is acquainted with you but I love you, and I must meet you. You won't be mad if I telephone you sometime will you? Sincerely Miss X
SOMEONE IS AT THE DOOR, CASPER! IT'S A GIRL! I WONDER WHO SHE IS?
SH-H! THE HOUSE IS RATHER UPSET, TOOTS! MAYBE WE'D BETTER NOT ANSWER!
HOLY SMOKE! WHAT IF THAT SHOULD BE "MISS X" ..... ? HOW WOULD I EXPLAIN TO TOOTS? I'M INNOCENT, BUT PROVING IT IS ANOTHER MATTER!
HOW ARE YOU, TOOTS? I JUST DROPPED IN TO SAY HELLO!
WHY, BETTY BIRCH! I HAVEN'T SEEN YOU IN AGES! I DIDN'T RECOGNIZE YOU AT FIRST! YOUR HAIR IS FIXED DIFFERENT, ISN'T IT?
THAT'S BETTY BIRCH, AND EVERYTHING IS ALL RIGHT, BUT FOR TEN SECONDS I THOUGHT SHE MIGHT BE "MISS X" AND IT JUST ABOUT TOOK TEN YEARS OFF OF MY LIFE! THIS IS THE CLOSEST I EVER CAME TO FAINTING!

O. S. U. TO CONDUCT EXTENSION CLASSES

State University Will Offer Course in Economics at Harding High.

Principles and problems of economics will be offered residents of Marion and vicinity by the Ohio State university department of commerce extension officials announced today.

The first meeting of classes will be held Tuesday, Sept. 27, at 7 p. m. at Harding High school. Prof. Milo Kimball who will instruct the class, will be present to explain the program and to receive the enrollments of those who desire to participate in the weekly meetings.

Dr. Thomas L. Kibler, director of the department of commerce extension of the university, made the following statement in referring to the proposed offering at Harding High school:

"Some understanding of economic principles is an important part of the equipment of every well-informed citizen. It is implied in a liberal education. It is essential to an intelligent understanding of business literature and the conduct of any business enterprise."

Regular university credit will be given in the economics course and university officials believe that it will appeal not only to business people but also to teachers and others who are interested in applying the credits earned toward a university degree.

All those who desire to acquaint themselves with the nature and scope of the program and the plan of instruction, have been invited to be present for the opening lecture. Those who plan to participate in the weekly discussions will have an opportunity to enroll for the course on the basis of a special fee fixed by the university board of trustees.

CHANGES MADE IN RURAL MAIL ROUTES

At their request a number of farmers living between Marion and Morral will receive their mail from the Marion postoffice instead of from Morral. The change will add two miles to the route of James J. Whaley, rural mail carrier out of the local postoffice, and will increase his salary from $2,480 to $2,550 a year, according to news dispatches from Washington, D. C.

The change will also result in an extension of one mile in the route of Charles W. Ferguson, Morral carrier, and will increase his salary from $1,920 to $1,980 a year.

LOVE ME, LOVE MY DOG!

He may not be the prettiest thing in the world, but little Betty Wade, of Newark, N. J., thinks this English bull is the best and most faithful friend a girl ever had. Though the dog has not won any prizes for facial beauty, he has been declared the best dog of his breed on three occasions, the latest at the annual show of the Tuxedo Kennel club of New York. Betty's sweet smile offsets the stern aspect of her pet.

GRANGE CONFERS DEGREE CEREMONY

Work in the first degree was conferred on one candidate at the meeting of Grand Prairie Grange No. 2370 last night at the Grand Prairie school building. The old age pension bill was explained by Charles Holt and activities of the grange were discussed in a talk by Dwight Myers, master of the grange. During the social hour Mr. Holt was presented a birthday cake in honor of his sixty-ninth birthday anniversary. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be Oct. 4 when Deputy Master Elmer Williams will conduct the annual inspection.

To promote the use of locally grown timber throughout the British Empire the Imperial Forestry Institute has begun publication of a series of books giving detailed information of many woods that have little commercial recognition.

WOMAN HONORED ON ANNIVERSARY

Relatives Are Guests at Birthday Celebration.

Relatives whose combined ages totaled more than 300 years were entertained as guests when Mrs. Croft Bauer celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday anniversary yesterday at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Sapp of 464 Forest street. They were Mrs. Angeline Gracely, 86, of Agosta, sister-in-law of the celebrant, Mrs. Mary Hecker, 85, and Mrs. Katherine Zachman, 77, of Marion, her sisters, and John Krouse, 84, of Agosta, her brother.

The celebration was planned by Mrs. Bauer's daughters, Mrs. Sapp, Mrs. J. E. Miller and Mrs. Angeline Dutton. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Bauer and son, Lauren Croft of Jamestown, Pa., Miss Nyla Miller of Cincinnati, J. M. Miller and son Donald, Mrs. Joseph Stubbs, Mary Twila Fox and Ruth Evelyn Fox. The celebrant received a number of remembrances.

The guests were entertained at dinner and the afternoon and evening spent socially.

TABLEAUX GIVEN AT GRANGE MEET

Tableaux representing faith, hope, charity and fidelity were presented last night at a meeting of Grand Prairie Juvenile Grange No. 242, at the grange hall north of Marion. The members expressed their ambitions in response to roll call. One candidate was given degree work. Later the juvenile grange joined the subordinate grange for a birthday party for Charles Holt. County deputy matron, Mrs. Elmer Williams, will inspect the grange at its next meeting, Oct. 4. Refreshments will be served.

CARDINGTON MAN INJURED IN FALL

CARDINGTON, Sept. 21—J. M. Jones of East Main street suffered a badly torn ear yesterday afternoon when a hay rope broke, letting him fall from a wagon of soy beans he was unloading. His right ear was nearly severed and he suffered body bruises.

COURT NEWS

Suit Filed

The Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. has filed suit in common pleas court against Emery and Dora Murphy asking a judgment for $856.02 and foreclosure of a mortgage. Hayes Thompson is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Answer Filed

Defendants in the suit of Frank Smith against LeRoy S. Gibson and Rena Sellers have filed an answer to the plaintiff's petition asking for a judgment of $40 and an order to vacate a strip of land in Marion 6.68 feet wide. The defendants say that they have never had possession of the land in question and ask that the petition be dismissed. The law firm of Donithen & Donithen filed the answer.

Action Approved

Partition of real estate and the election of the plaintiff to take all of two tracts of land involved in the suit of David C. Cope against Loren Cope and others has been approved by Judge George B. Scofield in common pleas court. A deed was ordered.

License Issued

A marriage license was granted here yesterday to Garold Stoffer, laborer of Mt. Gilead, and Marie Gamble of 218 Merchant street.

Court Appointments

Two appointments have been made in probate court this week. G. Parr Earle has been named executor of the estate of Dale Miles and Harry E. Thomas as administrator of the estate of Lean Moore Thomas.

UTILITIES HEAD

Grover C. Neff, 48, who has been named president of the Middle West Utilities company, largest of the insull enterprises. Mr. Neff has been chief operating executive of the Wisconsin Power & Light company for several years. He is a graduate engineer of Purdue university and is known as the father of rural electrification.

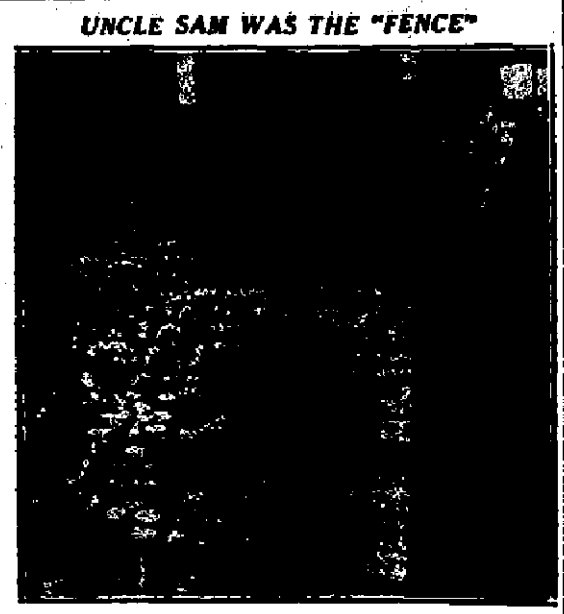
UNCLE SAM WAS THE "FENCE"



A member of the New York detective bureau is shown appraising part of the seven suitcases full of loot that was recently seized during a metropolitan raid. Police say that the seven men arrested comprised a gang who netted stolen articles of precious metal into ingots and sold the bullion to the United States Assay office. The captured loot is estimated as being worth $100,000.

Calm Waters

By PARKE WHITNEY

LESTER DAVIES was married to two women.

It was a painful existence. In the morning he would leave for town with a tender kiss from Maude still tingling on his lips; in the evening he was only too likely to return and find Grace, cold and distant, in possession of his home. And as surely as Grace arrived, the Davies household was filled with strife.

When he married Maude he dimly realized the disagreeable possibilities of Grace, but being very much in love, he threw discretion to the winds. Grace made her first appearance in his dovecote six months after he had wedded Maude; it took two days to oust her and regain peace. But, after her initial visitation, she had come more and more frequently, and now Maude was seldom mistress of his domicile.

Lester loved Maude. There was nothing to wonder at, for she was an adorable little sweetheart, who told him what a big, handsome lover and what a perfectly marvelous husband he was. She was eager to please him and to send him off each morning in immaculate and well-creased garments. Her greatest happiness was the knowledge that she belonged to him.

He almost hated Grace. She was so absorbed in consideration of her artistic temperament that she had neither time nor patience for him. He got on her artistic nerves. The tiny house cramped her artistic spirit. Dishwashing and sweeping raised havoc with her artistic hands and super-artistic soul. She forget to iron his shirts, neglected to sew on missing buttons, and refused to mend his socks. The whole burden of her will was what a great tragedienne the stage had lost when, in a moment of insanity, she had consented to become a mere wife. She even threatened to return to the stage.

Lester was getting desperate. He was nearly ready to quit a grip and flee from both wives. Maude had become so nearly eclipsed that the few hours of heaven with her did not compensate for the days and weeks of purgatory with Grace.

And then he had an idea! To insure its success, he carefully arranged the setting. Thus, when Grace next announced her desire to go back on the stage, he earnestly urged her to do so. For a moment she was taken aback, then she snapped him up.

So it happened that on the following morning she stepped into the Bay State booking office. Michael Glidden, who was "The Bay State," looked up, recognized her, and hastened forward with extended hand.

"Well, Grace," he beamed, "just dropped in to say 'howdy,' eh?"

"No. I'm looking for an engagement," she replied briskly.

"Gwan!" ejaculated Michael incredulously. He eyed her shrewdly, then beckoned her into the private office. "Come in; let's have a chat," he suggested.

"Now," he continued, when they were comfortably seated, "what's happened, Gracie? Had a row with hubby?"

"Not exactly," she returned, "but I feel I'm wasting my talents just keeping house. It's too deadly and monotonous for a woman of my artistic temperament." And then, for a goodly quarter of an hour, she gave a voluble recitation of her dramatic capabilities and her desire to free her imprisoned spirit.

"Hm-m-m," commented Michael Glidden, when she had subsided, "who said you had talent?"

"You did," replied Grace promptly.

"I may have, when when you were getting married," quoth Michael. "People do say flattering things at such times."

"What do you mean!" questioned Grace, a trifle upset.

"Now listen here, little girl," said Michael with a fatherly air, "of course you've got some talent, but so have any number of other girls. It's only one in 1,000 that becomes a star. You've got a nice hubby and a good home, and you'd better stick to them. I could name you dozens of girls in the show business who'd be tickled the show business was'd be tickled forget it!"

Grace was speechless. Only Michael's reiterated assurances that he had nothing for her finally sent her home.

Lester got his only report of the interview from Michael, for Grace remained mum. She refused to admit defeat, however, and the next day she began a round of the offices. But failure met her at every turn. Abstinence gave place to doubt; after weeks, doubt gave way to gradual certainty. Grace at last admitted to herself that she was not made of stellar stuff. Every agent in town had told her so, or had utterly ignored her, which was worse.

As the days had passed, Lester had been watchfully waiting, and as Grace's confidence waned, Maude's sweetness and tenderness became proportionately brighter, like the sun slowly emerging from behind a cloud.

The night that Grace finally acknowledged that she was not a future Bernhardt, she wept bitterly on Lester's breast. Miraculous to relate, he did not crow over her defeat, he held her tightly in his arms and comforted her.

His forbearance had its reward. It went straight to Grace's heart, and she resolved that, from that moment on, she would step out and let Maude's sunny disposition rule the Davies household.

So the following morning, Maude, smiling and happy, sat opposite Lester at the breakfast table and announced that Grace and her artistic temperament had forever departed. From now on, she was to be Maude C. Davies, with the "C" a very large one.

Thus it was that Lester Davies at last found himself married to one, instead of two, women, and the Davies' bark of love finally passed the rocks and sailed into calm waters—that is, into waters as calm as those of matrimony can be expected to be.

A certain man who was always very polite to women was asserting one day that he had never seen a really ugly woman.

A woman with a sense of humor and a flat nose said: "Look at me, and confess that I am truly ugly."

"Madam," replied the man, "like the rest of your sex, you are an angel fallen from the skies; but it was your misfortune and not your fault that you happened to alight on your nose!"

GIRL'S PARENTS FACE CHARGE OF CRUELTY

Kept in Corn Crib Near Agosta Without Proper Food and Clothing, is Claim.

lying on a small bed covered with torn bits of cloth that at one time were quilts. Matted hair, it apparently had not been combed for days, covered a thin face.

Family at Dinner

The farm differed but little in appearance from neighboring properties. It was well kept and in good order. There was nothing in the rooms of the interior of the house that would set it apart from the average home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoner and their two youngest children were eating dinner in the kitchen when the authorities appeared at the house. The meal consisted of fried potatoes, tomatoes, bread and butter, milk and a varied assortment of preserves. The girl in the upstairs room had not been given her meal. Five other children were in school. A ninth is married.

In talking to a reporter, Stoner and his wife admitted keeping the girl in the corn crib. They said they were unable to control her and used that method of keeping her out of the way while they were doing their work. They denied that they had treated her cruelly and that she had not been given sufficient food and clothing.

It has been necessary, Stoner related this morning, to confine the girl to the corn crib during the summer months for the last three or four years. She was kept in the building only in the mornings and evenings, he said.

The father said that the girl did not eat her meals with other members of the family. She was allowed to eat later, he said, because she was so "mussy."

In the middle of the conversation, Mrs. Stoner launched into an attack on several relatives whom she blamed for the affidavits being filed. She accused them of being jealous of her husband's apparent success on the farm.

Ullom Visits Farm

Humane Officer Ullom, who had visited the farm last week and discovered the girl locked in the crib, said that her meals were placed in a small tin pan and pushed into the building.

There were no windows in the crib. It was circular in shape and constructed of corrugated sheet iron, the surface of which was covered with stamped openings to permit ventilation. A person inside could not see out.

Efforts made by Probate Judge Oscar Gast to place the girl into a state institution have been unsuccessful because of the crowded conditions in those places. She was legally declared feeble minded some time ago.

IOWA SELECTED FOR FIRST HOOVER APPEAL

President To Address Nation at Des Moines on Oct. 4.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—A city in the heart of the farm belt—Des Moines, Ia.—today was chosen for President Hoover's first direct appeal to voters for reelection.

The Republican candidate will speak there Tuesday evening, Oct. 4, traveling to and from Iowa's capital without making any other address enroute.

The announcement of President Hoover's first campaign speech was made by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, in a formal statement that said:

"President Hoover will make his first speech of the campaign at Des Moines, Ia., on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 4. Arrangements for a nation-wide radio hook-up are being made.

"The President will return immediately to Washington after his speech. He will make no other addresses enroute. Time and place of other addresses by the President have not yet been arranged."

Mr. Hoover's trip west will coincide with Governor Roosevelt's return to Albany. It is expected in official quarters the President will discuss the farm problem, subject of the Topeka, Kas., address of his Democratic opponent during Roosevelt's present western swing.

So far as official announcements are concerned the President's speaking plans still contemplate two addresses in the west and one in the east.

Cookston of the Marion County Taxpayers' association, "How To Save the Taxpayers of Marion County $10,000 Annually."

Nominees Not To Speak

Candidates for public office and office holders will not be called upon or expected to speak, Dr. Sawyer said.

The meeting is one of a series arranged through the council of 100 to bring before residents of the community vital problems now being faced. In arranging for the taxation meeting an effort has been made to bring out the views of as many individuals and organizations possible.

In letters sent to members of the council and others, Dr. Sawyer stated "the subject is a vital one and I am sure that it will be handled in a way that will prove interesting and educational."

RITES PLANNED FOR MOTHER OF GARNER

Services To Be as Simple as the Life She Led in Texas Village.

By The Associated Press
DETROIT, Tex., Sept. 23—A burial service as simple as the life she led was arranged today for Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner, whose son, born in a log cabin, rose to be speaker of the United States house of representatives and now is Democratic vice presidential nominee.

The 81-year-old mother of John Nance Garner died peacefully yesterday.

The speaker was at her bedside. Though his mother was in a coma during the greater part of the last few days, she rallied long enough to recognize him and speak to him.

A brief service was arranged at the graveside today in a little cemetery on an oak-topped hill outside the town. Afterwards, Mr. Garner will return to Washington, then go to New York to take up again the work for the Democratic national ticket, which he left to see his mother for the last time.

Messages of sympathy for the family came yesterday from all parts of the nation. Among them was one from President Hoover.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE IS LOSER IN WISCONSIN

Senator Blaine, Progressive Also Defeated; Close Wet, Dry Contest in N. Y.

Democratic vote is expected to reach close to 900,000, a new high record for Wisconsin.

Congressional Results

Incomplete returns from the 10 congressional districts indicated four progressive Republican incumbents will be renominated, a fifth progressive will win, three progressives will be defeated, two progressives and two stalwarts will face a very close decision, one conservative incumbent will be renominated, one will be defeated and one conservative, seeking promotion from the state senate to congress, will be nominated.

The Blaine-Chapple fight for the senatorial nomination had several interesting angles, one of which was the difference in the age of the candidates and their experience in campaigning.

Blaine had been through many a campaign that led him to the governor's chair and then to the senate.

Chapple was a candidate for the first time. Before his advent in this primary fight, however, he had a period on the horizon a year earlier as a critic of the University of Wisconsin and of what he termed the "LaFollette political racket."

He took to task the governor, the president of the university, Glenn Frank, certain members of the faculty and members of the official family of Governor LaFollette, he published a little red book which accused LaFollette and his associate of having connections with organizations and movements that foster socialism and communism.

GALION POLICE HEAD ELIGIBLE TO RETIRE

Chief Frank Cook Completes 20 Years with Department; Council Gets Notice.

Special to The Star

GALION, Sept. 21—A communication form the pension committee of the board of trustees of the police relief fund stating that Chief of Police Frank Cook had served over 20 years in the police department and that his application for retirement was favorable and had been placed on the pension roll, was read before council at a meeting last night. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Councilman T. R. Daugherty called attention to the unsafe condition of portions of Harding Way West. Mayor H. H. Hartman stated that the matter of improving the street is under contemplation.

Following a report of City Solicitor George Davies on the protested assessments made against the properties of Harry Cohen on Walker street a motion was carried that the committees on sidewalks and alleys investigate the matter of condemning that portion of the first alley south of Harding Way East extending east to the building of the Perfection Vault Co. of which Cohen is the head.

Davies previously gave the figures contained in the journal entry made by Common Pleas Judge Abi in which the court reduced the assessments to one-third of the original amount.

The city solicitor reported that in connection with a proposal to remove the poles of a power company on Fairview avenue, the records of the county commissioners failed to show that permission had ever been granted for the erection of these poles in the city limits.

In the matter of the sewer on East Atwood street, Service Director K. A. Poister suggested that the property owners petition council for relief. Poister suggested that a new sewer of larger capacity be constructed to prevent flooding of cellars.

"CONGRATS," SAYS JACK TO JOE

One of the first to congratulate Manager Joe McCarthy (right) of the New York Yankees for clinching the American league pennant was Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion. Jack told Joe of his one-time ambition to be a ball player, and Joe said he had wanted to be a fighter. (Associated Press photo).

History and Biography Theme of Searchlight Club Programs

"THE MAKING OF AMERICAN HISTORY THROUGH BIOGRAPHY AND CHARACTER" will be the program theme for meetings of the Searchlight club whose members open their season Oct. 10. The program will be in keeping with the George Washington bicentennial observance.

Mrs. L. A. Wood will present a paper, "Making of the Constitution," at the first meeting and Mrs. S. L. Surface will discuss "George Washington," at a meeting scheduled for Oct. 24. A paper, "Alexander Hamilton," will be given by Mrs. M. O. Stoll on Nov. 7 and "Henry Clay" and "John Marshall" will be topics of papers presented by Mrs. William Drake and Mrs. J. E. Smith Nov. 21. On Dec. 5, the program will include a discussion of "Thomas Jefferson" by Mrs. A. N. Grimes and "Abigail Adams" by Mrs. Minnie Blow. The members will meet for a 1 o'clock luncheon Dec. 19 and the program will include a paper, "John Quincy Adams," by Mrs. Marshall McKinstry.

The new year will open with election of officers and a program including papers on "James Monroe" by Mrs. Pearl Thatcher and "Dolly Madison" by Mrs. C. L. Dobbins Jan. 2. On Jan. 16 the program will include papers on "Andrew Jackson" by Mrs. R. A. Garvin and "Frances Willard" by Mrs. Charles Wilhelm. "Daniel Webster" will be the subject of a paper by Mrs. Helen Hill on Jan. 30 and the members will hold their annual patroness party Feb. 13.

"Abraham Lincoln" is the title of a paper to be given by Mrs. J. H. Jackson at the meeting Feb. 27 and on March 13 papers will be presented by Mrs. H. C. King and Mrs. W. M. Tracy. Their topics will be "U. S. Grant" and "Lucy Webb Hayes." Mrs. Z. E. Gunder will present a paper on "Grover Cleveland" on March 27.

A 6 o'clock dinner the evening of April 1 will have husbands of the members as guests and on April 10 the program will include papers on "William McKinley" and "Jane Addams" by Mrs. F. L. Alexander and Mrs. L. A. Robinson. A paper on "Theodore Roosevelt" by Mrs. J. W. Hungate will be given at the meeting April 24 and the last meeting of the program season, May 8 will include a paper, "Woodrow Wilson" by Mrs. H. F. Pulsford and the annual reports.

Miss Scheiffler Announces Wedding Date

Announcement of the date for her wedding was made last evening by Miss Harriet Scheiffler when she entertained a number of guests from Galion and Marion at her home at 537 Cherry street. Miss Scheiffler will be married Sunday, Oct. 16, at 3:30 o'clock to Maurice A. Sparks of Strasburg, O. The ceremony will take place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scheiffler. Announcement of the wedding date was concealed in the guest favors at the luncheon and was found by Miss Mary Louise Hartsell. A cake, which was a decorative feature of the luncheon, contained a ring which was found by Miss Mary Primm, a button, found by Miss Fay Roberts, a heart by Miss Donna Imbody, a marble by Miss Dorothy Fetter and a thimble by Miss Virginia Hartsell. Miss Scheiffler's wedding colors of pink and white predominated in the colors carried out in the decorations for the luncheon and throughout the rooms. Mrs. Scheiffler was assisted by Mrs. Walter Lusk of Galion and Mrs. A. W. Smith of East Liverpool. Cards and contests were enjoyed, honors going to Miss Pauline Rubins. Mrs. Walter Lusk was consoled.

Guests from out of the city included Mrs. Lusk, Miss Alice Jeannette Ness, Miss Mary Primm of Galion, Miss Faye Roberts of La Rue and Mrs. Smith of East Liverpool.

My Beauty Hint

BY HELEN MACK

I HAVE found that a shiny nose results from imperfect rinsing after a face wash.

Every morning I wash my face with cold or tepid water; the cold water is stimulating and excellent for the skin. At night I use warm water and soap.

A thorough rinsing, removing all traces of soap, is necessary to skin health, I believe.

Colonial Club Members and Guests Meet

Bouquets of fall flowers decorated the home of Mrs. Reuben Rettig on Chestnut street yesterday when she entertained members of the Colonial Embroidery club and a number of guests. "Beauty Spots of America" were given in response to roll call and following a short business session the time was spent playing bunco. The award for high score was presented Mrs. Leo Keller and Mrs. George Shoemaker was consoled.

An attractively appointed two course luncheon was served at small tables centered with vases of sun daisies. Guests included Mrs. Paul Conrad and son, Mrs. Richard Senff, Miss Florence Jerew and Bobby Limbert. The club will meet Oct. 18 with Mrs. Herman Jacobs of Blaine avenue.

Federated Clubs Name Mrs. Snyder Delegate To Meet

MRS. GROVER C. SNYDER, president of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs will represent the organization at the Central district conference to be held in Columbus next month.

Election of a delegate and alternate to the conference was a part of the business when members of the executive board of the federation met at luncheon yesterday at the Marion City club. The meeting marked the opening of the 1932-33 season and plans for the years activities were presented and discussed.

Mrs. Paul Knauss, secretary of the federation, was named an alternate to the conference which will be held Oct. 18 and 19.

It was voted to hold the board luncheon meetings and regular business and program sessions of the federation at the Marion City club throughout the season. Reports of chairmen and officers were presented. An appeal was made to the women for jars for canning following the announcement that there was a waiting list of applicants at the Community Fund office. Mrs. Walter E. Miley, welfare chairman, announced that Christmas kits made for soldiers in foreign service should be ready for packing by Nov. 1.

Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford, who is in charge of the registration in connection with the Century of Progress exposition next year, reported that 318 women had registered during the three afternoons the book was placed at the Marion county fairgrounds last week. Prior to this 155 women had registered. Following a talk by Mrs. Karl W. Schell on the federation paper, "Federation Facts," the members voted to continue the publication this season.

Members of the All Arts club of Prospect will sponsor the first federation program of the season Oct. 4. The next meeting of the executive board will be held Oct. 25.

Socialist ticket, points out the interesting fact that 60 small towns in the United States are entirely free from local taxation because they own their own public utilities, gas, power, electricity, etc.

One big town that can testify to the value of public ownership is Jacksonville, Fla. John H. Perry's Jacksonville Journal reports that citizens for 1933 will pay as tax levy 11 mills, the lowest tax rate in 40 years. The 1932 tax rate is cut in two, thanks largely to earnings of the publicly owned electric light and power plant.

STENGEL SELECTED COMMITTEE HEAD

Dr. F. A. Stengel of 242 South State street, treasurer of the American Optometric association, has been appointed chairman of the reciprocity committee of the International Association of Boards of Examiners in Optometry, according to a notice received this morning from the American Optometric association.

The appointment was made by Dr. Chester H. Johnson of Philadelphia, Pa., president of the International Association of Boards.

The STAR

"No one need fear Birthdays" says Betty Compson

"I'M OVER 30," says Betty Compson, popular screen star, "and I don't mind admitting it in the least. No woman need fear added years—if she knows how to take care of her appearance!

"Actresses of the stage and screen know a young-looking skin is absolutely necessary. For years I have used Lux Toilet Soap, and find it certainly does wonders for the complexion."

The secret Betty Compson tells is shared by countless other lovely actresses.

Of the 694 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 685 use fragrant Lux Toilet Soap regularly. It is so utterly white!

Surely you will want to try it!

I'm over 30!
